Summary

Microfic/flash fic. There are more and more stray cats in the capital of Exatronia and you decide to solve this problem with the help of your friends.

- A translation of Aide aux chats errants by MiaQc

There are more and more stray cats in the capital of Exatronia and you decide to solve this problem with the help of your friends.

First, you ask Mercuria, Ruby and Hector to join you in the capital. Then you build a shelter for stray animals together. As soon as the construction is finished, you inform Exatronia's inhabitants. Finally, you and your friends go to the cat hunt. After all, it is necessary to catch them to bring them to the shelter. Some kittens are very docile, others are real monsters, and they leave you claw marks. The shelter is quickly becoming full of cats, but there is still room for other animals.

Since Mercuria, Ruby and Hector are often away on adventures, the task of caring for the cats falls to you, but it's a lot for one person to do. Besides, you don't have time to do adventures and quests like your friends anymore. This discourages you. You wanted to help stray cats, but it cost you your career as an adventurer. If only people from Exatronia would give you a hand once in a while.
